

Water Near Gone In Gap

MAYOR ARTHUR LEHR, of Delaware Water Gap, last night declared a state of emergency in the borough because of a severe water shortage.

Lehr said the situation is so desperate that unless another source of water can be found within 48 hours, industries such as the Ronson Corp. plant and Heico, Inc., will be forced to close.

Already, he said, one hotel and several homes at higher elevations are without water.

Lehr said the borough will start drilling another well today, to supplement the two from which water is already being drawn. In addition, Harold Crossdale, a chemist, will test the water in Latona Lake, about two miles above the reservoir, and if it is safe for use, it will be pumped into the stream which feeds the reservoir.

Lehr said that current water use is more than is being drawn from the two wells which are already in operation. He asked all residents of the borough to avoid using water for any but essential purposes.

He said the stream which feeds the borough reservoir has dried "to a trickle" and that the two wells cannot meet the demand.

AFTERMATH OF GAS EXPLOSION — Smoke rises from burning hamlet of Berlin, N. Y., after a load of propane gas on a tractor-trailer exploded. The flaming liquid spurted as far as a half-mile within the community. The truck driver was killed and 16 persons were hospitalized. A dozen homes and a 179-year-old church were ruined. N.Y. Town Mourns In Wake Of Fire

BERLIN, N. Y. (AP) — Ashes and sorrow lay heavy Thursday night on this charred Eastern New York hamlet, in the wake of a fire disaster that probably struck because a truck-driver had lost his way.

State Police believe the driver was on the wrong road when his load of propane gas exploded in flames Wednesday night in this community of 400. The truck driver was burned to death, a woman who fled her burning home died of a heart attack, and 18 men, women and children were hospitalized. Ten remained in critical condition Thursday.

The blast and flames destroyed 11 homes, a barn and the 179-year-old Baptist church.

Insurance adjusters estimated damage at more than $250,000.

India Will Manufacture Red Aircraft

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru has decided to push ahead with a plan to build and manufacture Soviet MIG fighters in India despite efforts of the United States and Britain to steer him off the deal, authoritative sources said Thursday.

A team of Indian experts will go to Moscow next month to open formal negotiations on the technical and financial aspects of the Soviet offer, that has been hanging fire for months. Informants said their report would be studied by the Cabinet at the highest level before the agreement is signed.

The plan calls for the possible purchase of two squadrons of Soviet jets and setting up a plan to build more in India.

Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan talked with Nehru during a stopover here Wednesday and sources said the prime minister got the impression that Moscow is still willing to go through with the deal.

Drivers Escape Injuries In Crash

AN ICE CREAM truck from Scranton swerved off Route 209 in Snyder'sville yesterday at 3:10 p. m. in an attempt to avoid an accident, rolled over and crashed into a gas station. There were no injuries.

Joseph Kalinowski, 26, Scranton, had made a delivery to Russell Bond, operator of a service station in Snyder'sville, and was attempting to re-enter Route 209. He swung his truck into position so he could observe the highway in both directions. He wanted to allow a west bound car to pass before driving out on the highway. He was operating a truck owned by D. G. Nicholas Co., Scranton.

As he was stopped waiting for the car to pass, the truck operated by Dan Harrity, 23, of Scranton, came from the west. He thought Kalinowski was entering the highway and swerved to his right, into the gas station, in an attempt to avoid hitting the car and truck.

The truck entered the driveway of the station, rolled on its side, striking the building and traveling an additional 15 feet before coming to a stop.

Bond, operator of the station, said, "I had just gone into the lube room to open a new case of oil when I looked up and saw the truck coming. I dropped the case and ran for the back door. Something struck me on the hand as I ran through the back door, but it did not hurt me."

State Police from Stroudsburg barracks, investigating the accident, said the Nicholas truck was not damaged and damage to the Fairmont truck and building were undetermined at the time. They will continue the investigation today.

HOLE IN THE WALL—The service station operated by Russell Bond in Snyder'sville was struck yesterday at 3:10 p.m. by a truck attempting to avoid an accident. The truck struck the wall knocking a hole in it eight feet wide and 12 feet high. The driver, Dan Harrity, 22, Scranton, escaped without injury. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Head On Crash Is Averted

Amsterdam, Netherlands (AP) —A Pan American World Airways airliner with 86 persons aboard went into a sudden deep dive — "at least 1,000 feet," said one passenger—to avoid a head-on collision Thursday with a small Dutch military plane.

Flight Capt. James McGuinness, 53, of Manhasset, N.Y., brought the big Boeing 707 to a smooth landing here after apologizing to the 77 passengers.

"I dived down to avoid another plane," he said. "I am sorry this happened."

McGuinness, a pilot with 25 years experience, said he missed the single-engine Dutch plane by only 300 feet.

The airliner, flying from Dusseldorf, Germany, to New York via Amsterdam, carried mostly U.S. military personnel and their families, including many children.

Passengers Fly About

The plane sent the passengers and their luggage flying about inside the airliner in a wild whirlpool. Many passengers were bounced to the roof. One of the hostesses was carried unconscious from the plane on a stretcher.

Airport officials said 16 passengers, complaining of back pains, were taken to a hospital. Others received first aid treatment at the airport.

Five first-class passengers, served drinks just before the dive, suffered cuts on their hands from broken glass.

Wimbledon tennis champion Rod Laver of Australia was aboard but escaped injury.

"I was sleeping at the time," he said. "Of course I was a little shocked, but I'm very glad I escaped unhurt."

The Dutch air force said the near collision of the jet and one of its Beaver planes took place above the town of Winterswijk, in eastern Holland, shortly before noon.

Capt. McGuinness, who brought the Boeing into Schiphol Airport only 15 minutes behind schedule, said the Dutch plane came out of the blue and "suddenly I saw the plane directly in front of me."

"We had a near miss and maneuvered to avoid him. We pulled up at a height of nearly 5,000 feet after our steep dive, veered and returned then to our normal height."

Troops Enter Algeria

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) —Troops of insurgent Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella were reported preparing Thursday night to push into this fortified capital city and clear the way for a new government. Bloody fighting could result.

Mohammed Khider, Ben Bella's lieutenant, announced he would be in Algiers on Friday to start the wheels of government turning.

The dissidents have appointed a left-leaning seven-member Political Bureau—including Ben Bella—to run the newly independent nation.

Ben Bella's followers appeared in firm control of western Algeria and part of the east.

Troops backing the wobbly central government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda manned all approaches to the city. Thousands more were holed up in the Kabyle Mountains east of this seaport, and their leaders called for widespread resistance to Ben Bella.

By contrast, Ben Khedda—left almost alone in the rambling government building—presented a calm front. He and his armaments minister, Abdelhafid Boussouf, expressed confidence that "everything will be arranged."

Pregnant Arizona Woman To Seek Legal Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A pretty mother of four may learn Friday whether she can abort legally her fifth pregnancy.

County Atty. Charles Roman, one of the defendants, said he felt the case could be argued Friday.

Presiding Judge R. C. Stanford promised all cooperation in speeding up the hearing and a decision. Worried Mrs. Finkbine: "If they make me wait until the baby moves, till I feel life inside me, well, I don't know what."

Meanwhile, she worried about her future as a television personality and that of her husband as a history teacher and assistant football coach.

Mrs. Finkbine obtained the tranquilizers from her husband. He said he bought them last summer while chaperoning a group of Phoenix and Scottsdale high school students on a European tour. He said he got the pills with a physician's prescription because he was keyed up after spending 18 hours a day with the students. He took a few of the pills and brought the remainder home.

Mrs. Finkbine said she had taken 30 or 40, "maybe more," during the first weeks of her pregnancy.

The couple then read a news story about the drug's dangers.

Political Career Wrecked By Living A Double Life

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) —William E. Cobb stood clamy amidst the wreckage of his scattered political life Thursday and admitted it is not possible to maintain a double family life.

Cobb, 40, boyish chairman of the North Carolina Republican party and a candidate for the State Senate, revealed Wednesday night that for more than two years he has maintained two homes: one here with his blonde, attractive wife of 19 years, and their 3-year-old adopted son; the other in Roanoke, Va., where he said he has lived with a mysterious woman he identified only as Linda, and two children born of their relationship.

"Anyone who lives under a veil of secrecy lives under a strain," said Cobb. "Now the secrecy is obliterated and there is a certain easing of personal tensions."

The two women involved went into seclusion. Rebecca Summers, Cobb's secretary, said Mrs. Cobb was "terribly upset, but was taking it like a real trooper." Mrs. Summers said Cobb's wife has decided to stick by him.

Meanwhile, in Roanoke, where Cobb maintained a home under the name of W. Edward Cobb, the woman with whom he said he lived there remained besieged in their small but stylish home. Outside, reporters and photographers clamored for pictures and some clue to her identity.

Cobb, who admitted the double family after being confronted by reporters, would not identify her.

The other woman, described as blonde and attractive, was packing her car, apparently preparing to leave Roanoke with her small children, when reporters arrived Thursday. She retreated into the house where she remained.

Cobb, a Marine Corps pilot during World War II, was graduated from Yale in 1947, then moved to Morganton where he entered the lumber brokerage business with his father-in-law. Since then Cobb has been successful in business and in politics where he is given credit for putting the Republican party on its feet in a traditionally Democratic state.

He was elected state GOP chairman four years ago. He served in the State Senate, but had to give up the post under a rotation agreement. He said Thursday he will resign the chairmanship when the state executive committee meets in New Bern on Aug. 4. He said he also will withdraw from the Senate race.

Federal Judge Rules Schools Must Open

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A federal judge called on Prince Edward County, Va., on Thursday to reopen its public schools, which the county closed three years ago rather than accept racial integration in the classrooms.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oren R. Lewis directed the Prince Edward School Board to complete plans for the admission of students to the schools on a nonracial basis by Sept. 7.

The result of his order could be the beginning of the end of an 11-year fight in the rural south-side Virginia agricultural county over the subject of school integration.

The decision was applauded by Negro leaders. There was no specific word from state or county officials on what their next move would be. Presumably, they will seek an appeal.

Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. went into an immediate conference with Virginia Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Button and two other top legal officials. He said he would have nothing to say until he had studied the opinion and conferred with other attorneys in the case.

Judge Lewis said it would not be necessary to enter a more formal court order if the Prince Edward schools are reopened and maintained in accordance with a previous order of his court.

No Formal Education

The county's 1,700 school-age Negro children have had virtually no formal education since 1959 when the Prince Edward Board of Supervisors cut off all operating funds and the schools closed.

The 1,400 white children have been attending private segregated schools, financed for a time by public money until Lewis banned use of such tax funds.

If the schools aren't reopened by Sept. 7, Lewis said he would consider any and all proposed orders offered by attorneys in the racial dispute.

Prince Edward was one of the original five cases ruled on by the U.S. Supreme Court in its historic 1954 school desegregation case. The schools closed in 1959, and the case has remained before the courts in one form or another.

Boy 15 Beats 3-Year-Old Girl To Death

ABINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Three-year-old Joni Lynn McCollum died Thursday night in Abington Memorial Hospital as the result of a severe beating police say was administered by a 15-year-old boy in a wooded area near her Ambler home.

Doctors said the girl's heart stopped beating shortly after she arrived at the hospital. They opened her chest and massaged the heart until it began beating again, but she died several hours later.

Lester Carpenter, Ambler police chief, said Thomas Leahy, 15, of Ambler, had admitted beating the little girl but could not explain why.

Leahy was taken to Montgomery Hall, Montgomery County's juvenile home.

Carpenter said he had learned Joni and her brother, Joseph, 6, had gone into the woods to pick flowers. Leahy met them and gave Joseph a nickel to go look for his bicycle, the officers said. Joseph told police he walked a short distance but returned almost immediately when he heard his sister scream.

Carpenter quoted the boy as saying he picked up a rock to throw at Joni. She screamed and he started hitting her with a rock, he told the police chief.

Roanoke commented on the similarity to her husband. When reporters for the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer and the Roanoke (Va.) Times confronted him Wednesday after a political meeting, Cobb admitted the dual life.

Hold Deep Affection

Later in a statement, Cobb said, "I hold deep affection for my legal wife and adopted son. I hold deep affection for the mother of my two young natural sons."

Cobb telephoned The Associated Press early Thursday: "It is all over. It is not possible to maintain a dual existence," he said. "I made a mistake and I am responsible."

He said he expects to remain in Morganton and operate his multimillion-dollar lumber business, which afforded him the excuse for frequent trips to Roanoke.

Steel, Iron U.S. Agree

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy announced Thursday the government has completed an agreement with a major portion of the steel and iron industry to undertake cooperative research aimed at increasing the efficiency of blast furnace operations.

The agreement was concluded with Blast Furnace Research Inc., representing 22 major steel and iron producers. The companies include the leading producers in the United States and three in Canada.

To Weigh Safely Treaty Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's disarmament advisers met in secrecy Thursday to weigh how far the United States might safely lower the safeguards it demands in any treaty with the Soviets Union to bar nuclear weapons tests.

No final decision is expected for perhaps several days. The discussion is to continue at a further meeting with Kennedy at the White House on Friday.

The closed Cabinet-level session at the State Department was presided over by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Rusk heads a seven-man committee which consists of heads of agencies interested in disarmament matters. Others include Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Central Intelligence Agency chief John A. McCone, Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg and U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency Director William C. Foster.

Also sitting in at the parley was Dr. Jerome Wiesner, Kennedy's science adviser.

A shift in the U. S. terms for a nuclear test-ban pact is up to the decision-makers as an outgrowth of recent findings from Project Vela, the U.S. program to improve methods of detection of underground atomic explosions.

Soblen's Plea Is Rejected

LONDON (AP)—Israel's Interior Ministry and Britain's Court of Appeal dealt successive blows Thursday to hopes of Robert A. Soblen for refuge abroad from the life sentence that awaits him in the United States.

It was another losing round—but not necessarily the last one—in the 61-year-old Jewish psychiatrist's fight to escape return to New York and imprisonment as a convicted spy for the Soviet Union.

The British Court of Appeal rejected Soblen's plea that he be freed from custody of the British Home Office.

That followed refusal by the Israeli Interior Ministry in Jerusalem of Soblen's application for admission to Israel under the 1952 Law of Return. The law requires Israel to give a home to those Jews, although it excludes those convicted of certain crimes.

Approved Unanimously

The ministry ruling was reported approved unanimously by Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's Cabinet. It was challenged, however, by Soblen's Israeli lawyer, Ari Ankori, and the Cabinet plans to review the case again Sunday.

Soblen could ask the House of Lords, Britain's highest law tribunal, to review the Appeal Court decision.

If the lords refused, the Lithuanian-born doctor who reportedly has leukemia—cancer of the blood—could press a petition pending before Home Secretary Henry Brooke for political asylum in Britain. The Home Office has declined to discuss this petition while the case remained before the courts.

Soblen got into Britain in the first place by inflicting knife wounds on himself while aboard an Israeli El Al airliner carrying him back to New York from Tel Aviv July 1.

He had fled to Israel on a French airliner from New York after jumping $100,000 bail.

Rail Union Threatens To Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—Railroad operating labor sued today to prevent the carriers from changing working rules and threatened to strike unless the railroads called off plans to change the rules.

The nation's railroad managements have set Aug. 16 for enforcement of economy changes in operating practices recommended by a presidential commission.

These changes include the elimination of jobs of 13,000 firemen employed on diesel locomotives.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court declared the carriers' action violated the national Railway Labor Act and added:

If the rail managements proceed to put into effect the rule revisions announced on July 17, the unions "will be forced to resist said revisions by asking those they represent . . . to withdraw from service" until management cancels its program.

Spokesmen for railroad management made no immediate comment on the lawsuit or on the threat to strike.

State Awards Two Highway Contracts

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Highways Department awarded a $3,729,897 contract Thursday for construction of 2.14 mile stretch of the Anthracite Expressway (Interstate 81 in Luzerne County).

The contract went to Glasgow, Inc., Glenside.

The project calls for the construction of four lanes of road and two prestressed bridges over Laurel Run and Mill Creek between Ashley and Wilkes-Barre.

The department also announced the awarding of a $39,600 contract to the Sofis Co. of Pittsburgh to rebuild a bridge over the Delaware River between Port Jervis, N. Y., and Matamoras, Pa. This contract includes the painting of the Narrowsburg Bridge over the Delaware River in Damascus Twp., Wayne County.

Seminar On Tocks' Impact Slated For ESSC Oct. 13

A SEMINAR on the impact of the proposed Tocks Island Dam, reservoir and national recreation area on the Delaware River will be held at East Stroudsburg State College, starting at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 13.

The seminar is being sponsored jointly by the college and the Water Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin.

The program will include four speakers, each talking for 15 minutes, following which the audience will be broken up into discussion groups to prepare questions for the speakers.

The meeting will conclude with a dinner at 6 p.m. at which a prominent speaker, to be named later, will address the group.

The audience is expected to include elected officials and community leaders from communities on both sides of the river involved in the dam, faculty members of the college, representatives of area newspapers and radio stations and selected federal and state officials. Attendance will be by invitation.

To Acquaint Leaders
The purposes of the seminar are to acquaint community leaders of ways in which the Tocks Island project will be developed, alerting them to possible economic, political and social repercussions and to give community leaders an opportunity to tell officials directly concerned how they feel about the project and how they would like to see it develop.

Among the proposed speakers and their subjects are Col. T. H. Setliffe, district engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, "Land Acquisition and Dam Construction;" Ronald Lee or Allen Edmunds of Region V, National Park Service, "Development of the National Recreation Area;" Vernon D. Northrup, federal alternate on the Delaware River Basin Commission, "Relocation and Administration;" and a yet to be named speaker on "The Regional Impact of Tocks Island."

Steelworkers' PR Man Dies
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Howard McCartney, public relations director for the United Steelworkers Union, died Thursday at Mercy Hospital following a heart attack.

McCartney, 46, suffered an attack at his home in suburban Pleasant Hills early Wednesday. He had been with the union since its inception in 1936. He was an employee of the organizing committee, which was the forerunner of the USW. He worked in public relations the whole time, becoming the director in 1959.

He is survived by his widow and three children.

Acme markets are operated by American Stores Co., which has district offices in Philadelphia.

Two Deeds Filed In Court House

TWO DEEDS were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

PMF Advice List Followed

HARRISBURG (AP)—All of the suggestions made by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation for improved safety in Pennsylvania Turnpike tunnels already have been installed or experimented with, the Turnpike Commission said Thursday.

C. E. Pugh, PMF general manager, listed a five-point program Wednesday to eliminate hazards in the tunnels.

Commission Chairman Joseph Lawler thanked Pugh for his interest, but added:

"The safety proposals which you outline in your fine letter are not new to our staff or to members of this commission. All of these suggestions have been either tried or in some way studied."

Pugh recommended reduced speed limits in the tunnels, better lighting to offset the transition from daylight to darkness, center barriers to prevent cross-over accidents, conspicuously placed tunnel guards and improved line painting of tunnel roadways.

Local Sermon On School Prayer Ruling

A SERMON by Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, on the U. S. Supreme Court decision regarding prayers in New York public schools was recently inserted in the Congressional Record by Rep. Francis E. Walter, Easton Democrat.

Rev. Eaton said the court's decision, which ruled prayer in schools unconstitutional, "was in effect an open condemnation of a practice several generations old in the schools of many states."

"It was a sharp indictment of the thousands of underpaid and unappreciated most worthwhile—our public school teachers—and of the millions of Americans who, by common consent, have joined in this practice as well as of the majority of American young people who have united in this exercise in the past school year."

To Strengthen Armed Forces

BALBOA, C.Z. (AP)—U.S. military forces in the Caribbean will be strengthened by approximately 1,400 men over the next 8 to 10 months, command headquarters announced yesterday.

Officials declined to discuss reasons for the increase or give the present strength of U.S. forces in the Caribbean.

Rev. Eaton said that prayer or Bible reading in schools has never been by coercion, but by common agreement and that protests against it have come from a minority of Americans.

He then added:
"May we urge that the democratic process is rule by majority, not by belligerent minorities, not by overvalued segments who claim 'rights' that do violence to the common good."

"While we would protest coercion of any agnostic or atheist or liberal, we would also refuse the coercion by them of the majority."

Rev. Eaton lauded the stand of Justice Potter Stewart who disagreed with the majority of the court and dissented in the opinion and said: "It is our sober conviction that a great mistake has been made. It is our fervent prayer that the mis-opinion and said: 'It is our take may be corrected before it is too late.'"

Her own checking account helps balance their budget...

every wife deserves her own at FIRST-STROUDSBURG NATIONAL.

It is desirable to have the family's major bank account in both names, for current convenience and also because the surviving spouse will have quicker access to the account in case of death.

However, some things are personal and private... we think she should have her own checking account.

Personal and private... nevertheless she wants to keep an account of what she spends and what she spends it for... probably it is a part of the overall family budget. She also needs proof of payment which a checking account provides.

A checking account of her own also gives her that little feeling of independence which is so important to all of us.

"two chickens in every pot"... "two cars in every garage"... Why not "TWO CHECKING ACCOUNTS IN EVERY FAMILY?"

Medal Of Honor Recipients In State

Won Laurels In Anzio Campaign

Second of a series on the seven Medal of Honor winners living in Pennsylvania.

Second of a series on the seven Medal of Honor winners living in Pennsylvania.

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP)—During the Anzio campaign in World War II Alton W. Knappenberger became one of the nation's heroes, and the winner of the highest award for valor—the Medal of Honor.

Today, Knappenberger of suburban Salford, said, "I hardly ever think about the old medal any more."

"I'm too busy thinking about earning enough money to keep this roof over our heads."

Knappenberger, just 20, was serving with the 3rd Infantry Division as an automatic rifleman on that February day in 1944 when he single-handedly routed an entire German company of riflemen, killing or wounding most of them.

"He was chiefly responsible for preventing serious losses to his outfit in a battle in which every officer and noncommissioned man in his company became a casualty," the dispatches said at the time.

Knappenberger, now 38, and the father of four, says he works 49 hours a week at $1.65 an hour as a truck driver.

Each year he receives an invitation to attend a convention of Medal of Honor winners.

But Knappenberger so far has never gone. "I've just never had the money," he explained, saying it's a struggle to make ends meet on his salary and buy the family home.

Knappenberger, like the others who won the Medal of Honor in combat, will be eligible—under a law signed by President Kennedy last August—for $100 a month pensions starting at age 50.

How does he feel today about his heroic performance of 18 years ago?

"What was I supposed to do?" he asked, soft-spoken as always. "I didn't know I was all alone. I thought there were guys on both sides of me. When the captain told me I was relieved I asked where my company was. When he told me there just wasn't any company any more, I just ran."

That hardly jibes with what Gen. Mark Clark said when he presented the medal:

"A one-man army, that's what you are — a blasted one-man army."

Shortly after he won the medal, Knappenberger recalled, "everybody wanted to talk to me about the medal. Now very few people know I have it."

As for the medal itself, Knappenberger says that shortly after he won it, a man from a veterans' organization borrowed it.

It was never returned.

Knappenberger obtained a duplicate from the Pentagon and this one he keeps in a safe place.

Priest Talks Man Into Giving Up

HARRISBURG (AP)—A priest talked a young man into giving up a one-way gun battle with police Thursday.

Matthew F. McCall, 22, surrendered after a 10-minute talk with the Rev. Michael Barrett, assistant pastor at Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament Church.

No one was injured although McCall allegedly fired at least seven shots at police and an intoxicated man from the window of his apartment in the uptown section.

Officers investigating complaints that McCall was shooting from the window took cover behind parked autos when they were unable to persuade him to surrender.

McCall demanded to talk to a priest.

While officers were awaiting the arrival of Father Barrett, the intoxicated man came on the scene and, ignoring warnings to take cover, stood under McCall's window. He ran when McCall fired several shots in his general direction.

McCall was charged with pointing deadly weapons and sent to Dauphin County jail.

Royal Thievery

The wave of opposition which greeted the proposal to levy a 20 percent federal withholding tax against income from dividends and interest was, it would seem, far greater in intensity and volume than the Administration expected. There is good reason why that should be so.

The objections are unusually varied. For one thing, this is not a new tax, but a complicated and costly method of collecting taxes which in multitudes of cases are not owed in the first place. The principal burden would fall on people in the lower income tax brackets, where the effective income tax rate is far below 20 percent.

Obtaining refunds for overpayment is a time-consuming process. Meanwhile, the government would have taken — long ahead of due date — funds which otherwise could have been deposited or invested, and brought income to their owners. Investment objectives established for the education of children, retirement and other goals would thus be undermined.

Great numbers of people—many in the low brackets — reinvest dividends and leave interest on savings deposits intact so that they will produce more interest. But, should the bill pass, 20 percent of such income would be taken in advance, and these people would suffer accordingly.

There are ways—sound ways — to deal with tax evasion. The new electronic processing machines the Internal Revenue Service is installing constitute one. Another is a step-up in the Treasury's tax educational campaign. A third is for the service to make better use of the huge resources of information and manpower it now possesses. It is not necessary to penalize the many because of the failure or dishonesty of the few.

You Get What You Pay For

Good Ol' Charlie Schmitt, the out-of-work race track tout from Girard, who would have liked to have been in the governor's chair—oops! saddle—in Harrisburg, has just confessed he didn't spend very much trying to mount up.

Schmitt admits to putting $43 down at the betting window but when they crossed the Democrat's primary finish line he was a good 550,000 votes in back of Richardson Dilworth, a Philadelphian who's been in blue grass and clover for a long time.

Charlie, who tried to be everybody's common man and hung his campaign on the premise that we could all go out to pasture if we'd only let a tax on race track betting cure the commonwealth's financial ills, came back to the paddock with about 100,000 votes.

Considering the fact that this is the era of the multi-thousand dollar political campaigns, we'd say Good Ol' Charlie made a lot of hay off his 43 bucks.

But for that kind of money, we doubt that Charlie will ever be remembered for anything else but an also-ran.

20th Century Morals

There used to be a town called Sodom which the Lord in His eternal wisdom ordered destroyed. From it has come down to us, to this day, the word Sodom and apparently, from ancient times to the present, it is a practice disapproved by most of mankind. Its defenders point to a galaxy of practitioners from Plato to Tolstoy to prove that such persons may contribute much to mankind.

It is generally maintained by police officials that apart from the morals involved, the practitioners of various homosexual methods are prone to being blackmailed. In fact, if caught at their activity, they are usually arrested. They are therefore unfit for service in sensitive areas of government, such as the State or Defense Departments.

A correspondent from Washington, D. C., writes me to challenge such a statement: "By what authority or knowledge do you presume that all homosexuals are so ashamed of their state and activities that they are subject to blackmail on that account? I can assure you that this is not so. I know many hundreds of homosexuals, and I know that these people are by no all subject to blackmail, by any means."

Obviously any person who is liable to arrest for his private habits, whatever they may be, can be blackmailed by the threat of exposure. Were we to have laws passed recognizing homosexuality as a permissible way of life, it would be different. Such a person would walk into the junior misses department of a store and make such purchases as he required. Instead, he devises indirect means to acquire the simplest articles of female attire. I was once told by a woman that she sells her clothes to such a person who acts for others of his peculiarity who require them. Were there no resistance to such habits, such contrivance would not be necessary.

My correspondent tells me: "There are some 15,000,000 homosexuals in this country. There are about a quarter-million in the government service, another 250,000 in the Armed Forces (over a million served well and honorably in World War II), and over a quarter-million with security clearances. The amount of harm or damage done by these people is demonstrably absolutely nil. It exists purely in the minds of those prone to superstition."

These figures are astonishing. There has been no census to establish them. In his wildest enthusiasm for the extermination of the State Department, Joe McCarthy never came up with any figures like this, which, in effect, say that something like 12 percent of the American population is homosexual. If that is so, we must be a very sick race. Of course, child births disprove these figures, but then the homosexuals claim that this is no evidence of their real intent.

I have not known "many hundreds of homosexual" as my correspondent says. "has. Truth to tell, in half a century of roaming the Earth, I have only met four of them and their absorption with the subject was as distressing as watching a fellow eat himself to death, or looking at an alcoholic who has but one thought in mind. This concentration on a function as though it were a great cause has a debasing effect upon the individual.

The only woman of this proclivity whom I encountered was a most brilliant mind and was, in a manner of speaking, respected. Such a person usually is a well-known figure, particularly in her own profession. I have not come across her or her name in years.

I think these figures are exaggerated. Nevertheless, were the figures even near the truth, this country would be faced with a serious moral and social problem which requires serious attention. There can be no question but that the State and Defense Departments should accept the challenge and uncover the truth is. Homosexuals should be dismissed from these departments because they are subject to blackmail, particularly by Soviet Russia which regards such conduct as punishable hooliganism.

The concentration upon sex is not unusual in post-war periods. This is a problem of physical and mental health, tensions, disappointments and the need to escape from one's own problems. Society usually counters the period of the Georges with strict Victorianism. Society battles self-destruction which homosexuality obviously is. The time has come, in our civilization, when we think of physical survival to consider also moral survival.

The Pennsylvania Story

Reporter's Notebook

Harrisburg — Reporter's Note-

The Bush Beaters — These summer months are a time that drive candidates nuts — but at the same time this period of campaign doldrums has its plus points which somewhat calms the icks of the campaigning brethren.

In summer it's next to impossible to rally a good crowd for a campaign speechmaking foray; too many people on vacation, or the hammock under the elm trees is just too comfortable — plus it's usually too hot any way to endure more hot air . . .

This is not to say there are never any crowds in the summer — just not the nominally consistent large groups that can be roped in during the fall months.

Pennsylvania's four main candidates this year — Democratic gubernatorial aspirant Richardson Dilworth and Republican William W. Scranton, plus Democratic U. S. senatorial hopeful Joseph S. Clark and his GOP counterpart James E. Van Zandt — are all pretty much on the road this summer but their agendas are loaded with "stop-overs" here and there with an occasional convention thrown in.

Actually, virtually every candidate concedes the point that the summer "cruise months" are becoming invaluable — a time for fence-mending, fully developing strategy moves and details, and perhaps more important than anything else, covering those areas, segments and groups that cannot be caught in the heat of full-blooded fall campaigning . . . Thus this may be "rush beating" time in Pennsylvania but it's still "profitable" and a somewhat far cry from those days of not too long ago when everything died until Labor Day!

Gendarmes Elite — On the fifth floor of the Finance Building atop Capitol Hill will be found about as elite a "security guard" as can be found anywhere . . . It's a three-man police force that guards the offices of the State Bureau of Traffic Safety.

"Commanding officer" of this trio of security stalwarts is Commissioner of Traffic Safety O. D. Shippey — a gent who doesn't mince words, means what he says and stands for no political buffoonery (as some of Pennsylvania's goaded lawmakers gentry have found out).

Mike Shippey runs a tight ship, as they say in Navetese . . . It's in his domain that license suspension files are maintained; or put more bluntly, his domain is the focal point of Pennsylvania's highway safety program . . . When a clerk some time ago got his fingers tangled in the files in an effort to spring a colleague loose from a license suspension "trap" (he was subsequently fired) — that was it . . . Safetyman Shippey put in for three security guards.

This month the "gendarmes" went on duty on the fifth floor to keep unauthorized personnel from fiddling with unauthorized documents — and to make sure that who goes in and out should go in and out . . . Mike's got more security than the Governor!

Testy Gubernatorial Candidate — Some of the dudes on Capitol Hill are still shaking their noggins over a letter written recently by GOP gubernatorial hopeful Bill Scranton to Pennsylvania AFL-CIO President Harry Boyer and Executive Vice President Mike Johnson in reply to charges they had made against Scranton on the controversial subject of medicare.

Heatedly denying every one of the Boyer-Johnson charges, Scranton in his letter to the unionmen wound up with: "I suggest that in the future you apprise yourself of facts before making charges. Of course, you are not accustomed to dealing with politicians who make decisions freely and independent of lobbies. Perhaps that is why you assume that all politicians make deals on their voting record for financial support. Your charge has been addressed to one who does not."

Capitol Hill Democrats, who suffer an applepie fit at the mere thought of criticizing union leadership, looked sideways as they read the Scranton tome — some enviously, but silently.

The Allen-Scott Report

Launches Drive

By Robert S. Allen

Washington — Katanga's President Moise Tshombe is getting ready to show the United Nations that his "bunch of clowns" still have plenty of fight left.

He is mustering all the military and diplomatic help that Katanga officials can find to oppose new efforts by Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant to bring his secession from the Congo to an end.

Already, Tshombe has opened secret negotiations with Portugal's President Salazar for a mutual assistance pact that would forge a military and diplomatic link between Katanga and Angola, Portugal's strife-ridden African colony.

According to a U.S. Intelligence report on these talks, Tshombe is offering hard-pressed Portugal a large amount of emergency financial aid and trade in exchange for military arms.

Also, Tshombe is proposing that they join in using their influence in Europe to oppose any new move in the United Nations this fall to impose economic sanctions against either Katanga or Portugal.

To finance this diplomatic offensive, Tshombe has promised to spend "millions of dollars" on a world wide public relations campaign to convince UN members that the world body should change its policies toward Katanga and Angola.

Specifically, Tshombe wants the UN Security Council to stop pressuring him to join the central Congolese government under the terms of Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Instead, he hopes his campaign will convince a majority of UN members that his government should be allowed to work out a political settlement with Adoula based on Katanga's retaining considerable autonomy in a new Congo federation.

The U.S. Intelligence estimate indicates that President Salazar is planning to accept Tshombe's proposal. It points out that diplomatic and military advisers of both Presidents are now discussing the details of how to organize the aid exchange.

READY TO ROAR — U.S. diplomatic officials, while opposed to Katanga's secessionist policies, are convinced that Tshombe isn't bluffing about fighting, and that he has plenty of money to carry out his intriguing international maneuvers.

At present, his "secessionist" government receives $36 million a year in taxes from the mining operations of Union Miniere du Haut-Katanga, which has vast holdings in Katanga and controls the Congo's prime resources — copper, zinc, and cobalt.

Tshombe is indicating that he is ready to spend it all to block new UN intervention. Through the huge mining company's financial backers in Europe, Tshombe is exerting influence on the Congo policy of Belgium, France and Great Britain.

State Department officials are crediting Britain's sudden change of policy last week to this European financial influence. The Earl of Home, Britain's Foreign Secretary, told Secretary of State Rusk that Britain would not participate in economic sanctions against Katanga, as sought by the U.S. This proposal was drafted by U.S. Ambassador Edmund Gullion, the State Department's chief policy-maker on Congo affairs.

In light of the British policy switch and the other developments, Secretary Rusk is now reviewing U.S. Congo policy. He has summoned Ambassador Gullion from Leopoldville for emergency consultations.

STRAWS IN THE WIND — Meanwhile, Tshombe has notified Michel Struelens, his unofficial consular in the U.S., that he is ready to pump another $100,000 into his Katanga Information Service to get across "Katanga's story" in the U.S.

Tshombe's message followed a report from Struelens that he was convinced that the UN's financial difficulties barred new military action by its international forces in the Congo. The Katanga "lobbyist" reported there was even hope that the State Department would begin easing its policy toward Tshombe.

Struelens' optimism isn't shared by key members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who are in daily contact with the highest State Department officials on the worsening Congo situation.

They report that these officials have been working closely with the Committee's staff to make Struelens' U.S. activities for Tshombe a major target in next month's public hearings on the operations of foreign agents in the U.S.

Note: Diplomats at the United Nations believe that U Thant's off-the-cuff description of Katanga officials as a "bunch of clowns" was his first blunder since taking office. His statement is being resented by Afro-Asian delegates, including many that were anti-Tshombe.

SOCIAL WHIRL — Mrs. Perle Mesta, noted "hostess with the mostest," is returning to the scene where she became internationally prominent — the small duchy of Luxembourg. As Minister to Luxembourg in the Truman Administration, Mrs. Mesta was the prototype for the lead character in the long-running stage hit "Call Me Madame." Mrs. Mesta is leaving on a tour of Europe, to be climaxed with a "homecoming" visit to Luxembourg, where she will be received by the Grand Duchess and given a state banquet. . . . The U.S. has suspended diplomatic relations with Peru, but that's not affecting the social status of its longtime and widely popular Ambassador Fernando Berckemeyer. He is being welcomed everywhere as warmly as ever, and is as unperturbed about the strained relations between his country and the U.S. as a veteran diplomat might be expected to be. Besides being personally well liked, Berckemeyer, who has been his country's envoy in Washington since 1949, is a personal friend of President and Mrs. Kennedy. He has known the First Lady since she was a young girl, and attended her wedding in Newport, R.I. Berckemeyer's own wife is a San Franciscan. As vice dean of the diplomatic corps, the Peruvian envoy is noted for his frequent and handsome entertaining, both at large receptions and small dinners and garden parties. Berckemeyer has what is rated as one of the best collections in the world of taumasa — art objects relating to bull fighting. His collection housed in the embassy, contains more than 1,500 oils, lithographs, drawings, etchings and engravings by every known artist, including Goya.

2 Sentenced In Beating Of Worker

MILFORD—Two former employees of Taminent were sentenced yesterday by Judge Fred W. Davis in Pike County Court for beating and robbing another employee of the resort on June 24.

William Cole, 24, Sacramento, Calif., was sentenced to an indefinite term at Camp Hill. He was charged with receiving stolen goods.

Carroll Lee Wyatt, 26, Modesto, Calif., was sentenced to two to six years at Eastern State Correctional Institute and fined $500 and costs. He was charged with robbery.

State Police at Milford said the pair beat and robbed John T. Johnson of Lewisburg after offering him a ride to Bushkill.

Car Crash Victim Is Still Poor

DONALD C. Shook, Jr., 22, of 432 Birch St., East Stroudsburg, was reported to be still in poor condition last night by a spokesman for the Newton, N. J. Memorial Hospital.

Shook was injured Wednesday in a one-car accident near Blairstown, N.J. Killed in the accident was his brother, William T. Mansfield, Stroudsburg, RD 4.

New Jersey State Police from Blairstown said late last night that they have been unable to determine which man was driving the car. They said, "Shook is unable to talk and until he does we will not know the driver of the vehicle."

They will continue the investigation today.

Sentenced To 30 Days

ALLEN LOPER, 32, Indiana, Pa., was sentenced to Monroe County Jail for 30 days at a hearing before Harold D. Larson, Sr., East Stroudsburg justice of the peace, yesterday on disorderly conduct charges.

RETAIL food prices in Monroe County increased 3 percent from May to June, 1962, Herbert Bientstock, regional director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said yesterday. In June 1962, the Monroe County index stood at 102.7 percent for the 1957-59 average prices.

Boy Scout Ceremonies Held In Gap

DELAWARE WATER GAP — More than 100 people recently attended ceremonies of Boy Scout Troop and Explorer Post 92 charter presentation in the old Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad building.

The building is now owned by the borough and permission has been granted to the scouts to use the site by council.

Francis Drake, committee member, spoke briefly of the history of the building and thanked all workers who donated their time in cleaning, painting and installing new wiring. Also thanked were those who have donated furniture and other articles in the building.

The scouts demonstrated hatchet sharpening, soil conservation, physical fitness and the history of the United States flag. Participating in the demonstrations were Larry Lightner, Douglas Baker, William Carlton and John Sipthorpe.

Refreshments were served following the ceremonies.

Sabbath Services At Temple Israel

THIS evening at 8 p.m. at Temple Israel, East Stroudsburg, the Sabbath services will be held.

Rabbi Bernhard Presler will conduct the services and will deliver the sermon entitled "Enough Of Tent Folding."

On Saturday morning services will be at 7:30 a.m. to conclude the reading of the Book of Numbers. Bar Mitzvah classes will follow at 9:00 a.m.

Since June 1961, retail food prices have risen 2.3 percent as compared with 1.0 percent increase in the U.S. food index.

From May to June, average prices were reported for fruits and vegetables, up 3.4 percent; meats and poultry, up 4 percent; and food at home, up 4 percent.

Since June, 1961, cereal and bakery products have increased 3.8 percent; meats, poultry and fish, 3.9 percent, and fruit and vegetables, 2.7 percent.

Roads Department Speeds Up Procedures

Shortway Construction Ball Starts To Roll

THE STATE Highways Department said yesterday it hopes to have at least one-third of the proposed $300 million Keystone Shortway under construction by the end of 1962.

To achieve this goal, highways officials are planning a major stepup in design and construction work for this summer.

For one thing, Highways Secretary Park H. Martin has indicated he expects to put 63.10 miles of the cross-state superhighway up for bid within the next few months.

This, combined with the 48 miles already under construction and the 6.20 miles already in use, would put well over one-third of the shortway in the building stages by Dec. 31.

Meanwhile, over-all work on the 300-mile superroad continues to progress on schedule.

When completed—hopefully by 1967 or 1968—the Keystone Shortway (Interstate 80) will stretch across the northern tier of Pennsylvania from Stroudsburg in the east to Sharon on the Ohio line. It will traverse 14 counties including Monroe, Carbon, Luzerne, Columbia, Montour, Northumberland, Union, Centre, Clinton, Clearfield, Jefferson, Clarion, Venango and Mercer.

Philadelphia Eggs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eggs: Adequate offerings on large and medium, liberal on small. Prices to retailers in cartons: Grade A large whites 34 1/2-35; Grade A medium whites 32 1/2-33; Grade B large whites and browns 31-32.

The road is expected to form an important link to the New York-San Francisco highway and play a key role in industrial development, residential expansion and tourist attraction in Pennsylvania.

It will be to northern Pennsylvania what the turnpike is to southern Pennsylvania.

Construction of the Keystone Shortway was authorized by the 1955 state legislature and former Gov. George M. Leader. One year later it was incorporated into the federal interstate program—calling for the federal government to finance 90 per cent of the cost.

Work's Been Slow

Up until now, however, work has been slow. Only 6.20 miles has been opened to traffic—that at the Stroudsburg bypass. Construction of the bypass began in 1958. Another 48 miles is under construction. A total of 141.67 miles is in final design and slated for construction in the 1962-63 fiscal year while 120.08 miles is in final design for later construction.

The 63.10 miles expected to be advertised for bidding this summer covers four general areas—19 miles from the Ohio state line to a proposed connection with the Pittsburgh-Erie Expressway; 10 miles from a point east of the Clarion River to a junction of the Brookville bypass; 18.3 miles from Route 54 north of Danville to a point east of Mifflinville, and 15.8 miles from a point near the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike to Tannersville.

In its latest up-to-date progress report, the Highways Department gave the following county-by-county breakdown:

Mercer—29 miles in final design from the Ohio line about a mile south of Sharon, passing south of Mercer and north of Grove City.

Venango—33 miles in final design from Barkeyville eastward, crossing the Allegheny River south of Emblenton into Clarion County at the intersection of Traffic Route 68.

Clarion—Nine miles in final design from Traffic Route 68 to U.S. 322 in the vicinity of Corsica. Clarion-Jefferson — 16.76 miles under construction from U. S. 322 west of Corsica, passing close to Brookville and extending to Emmerickville.

Jefferson—Eight miles in final design from Emmerickville, passing to the north of Reynoldsville and close to DuBois in Clearfield County.

Clearfield—27.79 miles in final design from a point close to DuBois, continuing eastward, north of Clearfield, to Dale. Centre - Clinton - Union — 87.08 miles in final design from Dale to White Deer. The shortway will pass near Snow Shoe Borough, coursing north of Bellefonte to the Clinton County line.

Union—13.21 miles under construction from White Deer, crossing the Susquehanna River into Northumberland County and thence into Montour County to an intersection with Traffic Route 54 north of Danville. Also under construction are twin bridges across the West Branch of the Susquehanna River.

Northumberland — Progress is being made in excavation, grading and drainage north and east of Milton. A box culvert is under construction east of the Milton-Watsontown Road to divert a stream.

Montour—17.99 miles in final design from Traffic Route 54 passing into Columbia County and ending at Mifflinville.

Columbia-Luzerne — 0.36 of a mile under construction involving twin bridges across the North

Branch of the Susquehanna south-west of Mifflinville. Another 49.89 miles is in final design in Columbia County extending from Mifflinville through Luzerne County and into Monroe County terminating at Traffic Route 940.

Carbon—Several miles in final design extending through the Pocono Mountain area. This section will cross the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike via a bridge.

Before Fall

Monroe—11.22 miles under construction from Crescent Lake in the Tannersville area. It is anticipated that this portion will be completed for service before fall. It will connect with the 6.20-mile Stroudsburg bypass providing a link with New Jersey.

The House Of The Week

Functional Foyer Puts Wasted Space To Use

By JULES LOH

WHEN you count the rooms in a house, do you count the foyer? Normally, of course, you don't. But in today's House of the Week you probably should, because this foyer is a functional room which clearly will serve a nobler purpose than merely a place for the umbrella stand.

Architect Herman H. York, who designed the handsome three-bedroom split, believes the foyer is an ideal location for the downstairs lavatory. It is convenient not only to the kitchen, where the housewife spends most of her day, but also serves as a powder room adjoining the formal entertaining area.

Architect York also included a shelf outside the lavatory. With a mirror above, it makes an ideal freshening up spot for guests. Also, he located the coat closet well out of the way of both the front door and the living room entrance, eliminating the untidy congestion that develops in inadequate foyers when folks arrive and depart.

"A foyer is an important part of any house," York said. "It's almost impossible to have smooth traffic flow without one. But its space is all but wasted if it is used simply as a hallway and nothing more."

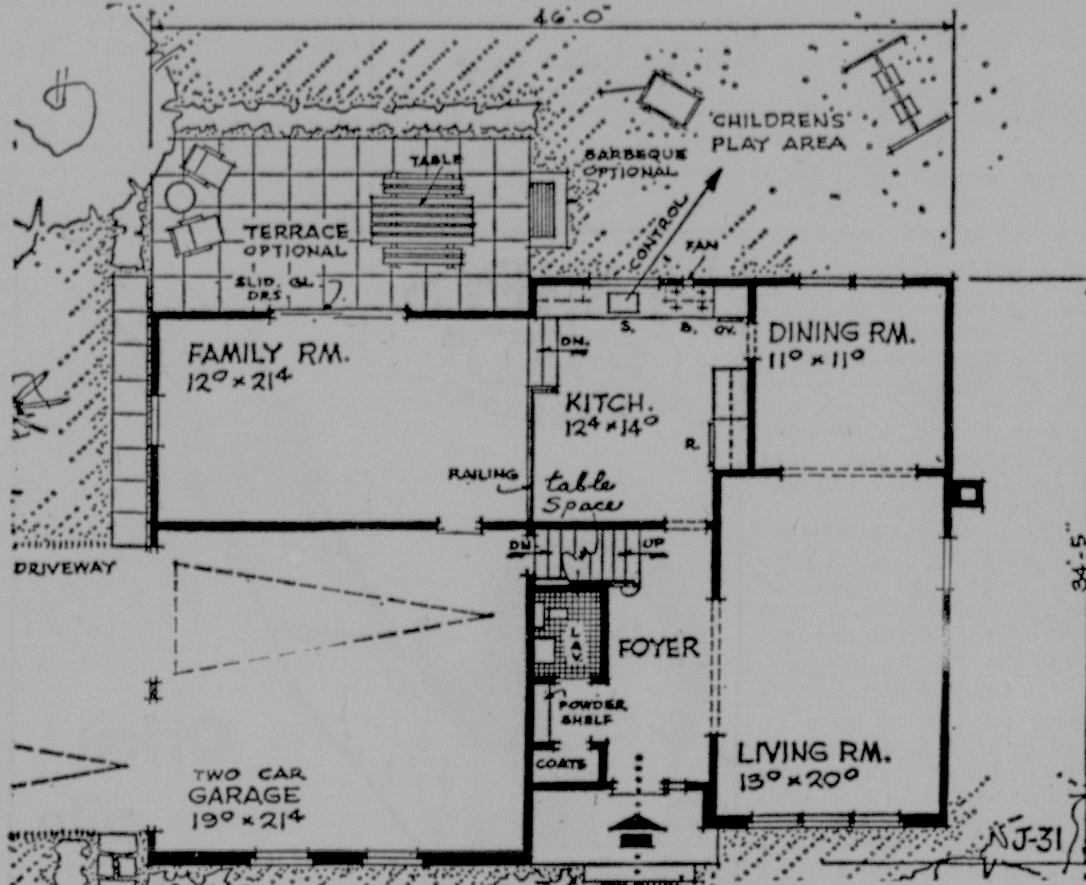

Getting the most out of every square inch of space is a specialty of York's, and this house — design J-31 in the series — is a fine example.

The house has all the room and facilities most three-bedroom families require; large living room, family room, separate dining room, kitchen roomy enough for a breakfast table, two and one-half baths, double garage, basement. Yet the lower levels contain only

INVITING SPLIT — This three-bedroom split level contains two and one-half baths, living room, dining room, kitchen and family room in 792 square feet of living area on the lower level and 1,031 square feet on the upper level. Doors to double garage could be located in front if lot is too narrow.

FLOOR PLANS — Side-to-side split contains 1,221 square feet of floor space on lower levels, including 429 square foot garage; 1,031 square feet on upper level. Basement is located beneath right hand portion of the lower level. Garage doors could be located in front if necessary.

1,221 square feet of floor space, including the 429-square-foot garage. The bedroom level contains 1,031 square feet.

Overall dimensions of the house are 34 feet five inches deep by 46 feet wide. The garage doors are on the side, but they could be shifted to the front if the lot is too narrow. It takes about 28 feet of property on the side of the house to provide the necessary driveway clearance for a side entry.

The kitchen and family room of this house form an extremely livable 34-foot expanse where the housewife can maintain easy supervision of both the indoor and outdoor play areas.

Only three steps divide the two rooms, instead of the usual six, but the balcony effect of the breakfast area remains. The table space, incidentally, is out of the path of the kitchen work zone. A broad window over the sink provides plenty of light as well as a good view of the backyard. The family room has a window at one end and sliding glass doors leading to the rear terrace.

The living room features triple windows at the front and a long wall where a fireplace could be located if desired. A fireplace isn't shown on the plans, but it easily could be placed in the center of the wall and the furnace flue located at that point in one chimney.

Upstairs, the three bedrooms are all of ample size and each has an abundance of closet space. The master bedroom has a dressing area with built-in vanity outside the adjoining full bath. The main bath has an extra large vanity and a linen closet inside the room. This is in addition, of course, to the large linen closet in the hall. Anyone who has suffered from inadequate upstairs storage space will appreciate these two features.

For the exterior, architect York is an advocate of restraint in both materials and colors. He feels white always is attractive for the wood siding along with any color of local brick, and if an accent color is used it should be limited to perhaps a pastel shade under the roof overhang. "Avoid the spotted, busy look of heavy accent colors in too many places."

TRIM AND SASH FIRST

When painting the outside of your house, it's a good idea to paint the trim and window sash before the siding if they are to be of a different color. In this way you avoid placing your ladder against the newly painted exterior walls and you won't spatter any of the enamel or trim paint on the siding, either.

TWO CAR GARAGE

If yours is one of the increasing number of two-car families, you'll find that parking will be easier if you divide the garage into two sections by painting a line down the center of the floor. In this way the first driver will leave enough room for the second car. Simplest to use is a latex floor enamel which will not be damaged by the alkali of the concrete floor and will dry in less than an hour.

West Point 'Dud' Found Near Depot

WEST Point cadets who trained at the Tobyhanna Military Reservation in 1938 and 39 are still being heard from. The other day, a 155 millimeter howitzer shell fired by the West Pointers more than two decades ago, was exploded with a roar that reverberated for miles around.

In the immediate vicinity, the blast uprooted two trees and damaged numerous others.

The shell was one of several discovered in recent years on and near the Depot. All were duds, or shells that did not explode during artillery training exercises held just prior to World War II.

Finding this most recent dud was Sp4 Marvin Jones of the 128th Signal Company. Jones, a native of Colorado, likes to go on long hikes by himself on weekends. Five miles from the Depot, behind the Tobyhanna State Park in an area called Black Bear Swamp he came upon the shell. Covered with rust, it was about 30 inches long and 6 inches in diameter.

Remembers Incident
Jones did not get too close to the potential danger. He remembered that in Korea a few years ago a friend of his kicked what looked like a dead shell and never lived to regret it.

Making a mental note of the shell's exact location, Jones later reported it to the Provost Marshal. A call to the Valley Forge Army Hospital in Phoenixville brought a squad from the 69th Ordnance Detachment (Explosive Disposal).

For the squad of one officer and two enlisted men, headed by First Lt. Richard McGlaun, it was old home week. Just three months before, the unit was called in to explode an old 75 millimeter shell on Powder Smoke Ridge. In this same area two years ago the squad, on a more extensive visit, detonated 25 duds, all of the 1938-39 period.

With Jones pointing the way, the small squad truck containing explosives, wire and other items of the trade, threaded its way over a rocky, leaf-strewn path. When the road narrowed after a mile or two, the men left the vehicle, removed their supplies and completed the journey on foot.

At the shell site, McGlaun sized up the situation and planned a course of action. Two pounds of explosives, he decided, were to be attached to the shell, then wires strung to some huge rocks in a gully about 700 feet distant.

This accomplished, carefully but with dispatch, the lieutenant ordered everyone behind the rocks. After checking the area for other human and animal life, he shouted "Fire in the hole" three times, moving to the shelter as he did so.

The press of a button triggered an explosion that was heard at the Depot five miles away. Many there thought it was part of the underpass construction then going on.

Easy Day's Work
Compared to other jobs they have handled, this was an easy day's work for the Valley Forge soldiers. Frequently, the squad has to de-fuse homemade bombs and other more risky items, including cannon balls dating back to the Civil War.

"These cannon balls," McGlaun explains, "are fitted with black powder and are most dangerous because of their unpredictability."

The most unusual weapon the men were ordered to pick up one day was a flamethrower, complete with ammunition, brought home as a souvenir by an ex-Marine.

For this hazardous duty an officer receives an extra $110 a month, and an enlisted man, $55.

"But that isn't the reason most of us go in for this work," McGlaun says. "We like the challenge, I guess."

Pope Praises Telstar Globe

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope John XXIII praised the telstar satellite, saying it is an important step in peaceful scientific progress.

The head of the Roman Catholic Church spoke yesterday to 8,000 persons attending a general audience at his summer residence.

He did not specifically name Telstar, but his reference was clear.

"Two days ago you heard voices from several countries and in several languages," he said.

This, he added, was both a peaceful scientific advance and a proof of fraternity among peoples.

Pope John reportedly watched the telecasts exchanged between Europe and American Monday night.

Ex-Marines Held Blacklisted

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Rep. Paul Dague, R-Pa., said Thursday he and three other congressmen—all former marines—were "blacklisted" from a special presidential Marine Corps review in Washington July 12.

Dague said names of the four were penciled out of a list submitted to the White House for approval. He listed the other congressmen as William M. Tucker, D-Va.; James C. Davis, D-Georgia; and William H. Harsha, Jr., R-Ohio.

Dague said all four have "a record of voting pretty consistently against the administration's legislation."

Asked about the alleged incident, Andrew Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, told a reporter of the Lancaster (Pa.) Era, "I don't have the slightest idea who penciled them out."

Musical Next At Pocono Playhouse

"BYE BYE Birdie", a musical show which opens at Pocono Playhouse in Mountainhome, Monday night, July 30, marks the peak of the season of entertainment at the theatre. Carleton Carpenter and Pat Finley, both well known in musical productions, will have co-starring roles supported by a large cast of singers and dancers.

Carleton made his Broadway debut in "Bright Boy" followed by other successful ventures including "Hotel Paradiso" in which he starred with Bert Lahr and Angela Lansbury. He has appeared in over 300 radio and nearly 500 live TV shows and has recently completed the score of a new musical entitled "Dear Boy".

Not more than a year ago, Pat Finley was playing in the Australian Company of "Bye Bye Birdie". TV viewers will recognize her as pitchwoman for leading detergents and as one of the theatre's most promising newcomers on the show "Class of 61". She appeared in New York, in the musical revue "Greenwich Village USA" and in the off-Broadway production of "The Boy Friend". She recently concluded an engagement at Lois Lane in "Kiss Me Kate".

"Bye Bye Birdie" is a comic libretto about the impact on the country and consternation among the young over the induction into the Army of a side-burned, swivel hipped, jive talking young crooner who was the popular craze. His manager arranges for him to bid farewell to the bobbie soxers in a typical mid western town. Teenagers scream and adult ladies swoon when the dreamboat warbles his farewell songs. Getting a bit bored with the adulation he sneaks away for a little fun on his own and then the trouble starts with high humored confusion. The show is pure, plain musical comedy, full of wit, a bit of romance, dancing, oddball costumes and catchy tunes. Included in the cast are Ruth Manning, Jim Nichols, Tom Golden, Trudy Carole, Ann Collins and a gay collection of dancing teenagers.

"Bye Bye Birdie" will be directed by James Carr, with choreography by Johnny Kohl. The show will continue for just one week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, August 1st and 4th. Reservations may be made by phoning 566-7456 or at Pocono Playhouse box-office.

STROUDSBURG

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

It was a perfect day for almost anything except for sitting around in a wet bathing suit when the wind would seem down-right chilly.

Certainly it was perfect weather for Shawnee Women's Day at Glen Brook — for playing golf if not for scoring since the wind that made it so comfortable and sent the cloud shadows scurrying over the course in swift procession also did strange things with a ball in flight.

Except, of course, if the ball had been hit by Diane Schlegel who, in her first year of playing, can hit it a country mile, with or without the wind. Well, some have it and some don't but even the duffer could enjoy the day and even hit one, maybe, with a stiff following wind.

But speaking of cloud processions, it seems that we've had a more constant procession of engagements and marriages this year than in most years when they sort of got bunched up: Christmas and Valentine's Day with engagements; June with weddings.

It may be that I am just more sensitive to romance this Summer — or know more intimately many of the people involved, but they do seem to keep coming right along and certainly enliven what is generally a mid-summer slump in social news.

There's another thing that's bound to give a lift to social life this Summer; the imminent visit of Merle and Frances Ostrom, who have been on a sort of triumphant tour of their children and former homes. We'll just have to hope that they are not all ported out because local treozers are sure filling up with canapes in their honor.

Meanwhile there's the Craftsman's Fair and Betsy Peeney's wedding and a weekend when maybe I can stay home long enough to do my own dishes instead of leaving them for my houseguests. Somehow I always manage to reverse the traditional roles with the houseguests leaving exhausted and the hostess rested and thoroughly delighted with their visit.

Shoemaker Family Reunion Is Held At Weir Lake

Saylorsburg—Arthur Shoemaker was elected president at the annual reunion of the Joseph Shoemaker family held at Weir Lake, Gilbert, on Sunday.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, Paul Shoemaker; second vice president, Morris Smickley; secretary, Janet Gower; assistant, Elaine Hawk; treasurer, Roy Shoemaker.

Estella Smith was named chairman of the luncheon committee with Helen Shoemaker and Mabel Barnes as assistants. Ruth Hageman will be in charge of gifts for the next reunion to be held the second Sunday in July at Weir Lake.

Martin Descendants Gather At Appenzell Picnic Grove

The descendants of Charles and Emma Martin, who reside near Readers, gathered at the Appenzell picnic grove recently for their thirty-seventh annual reunion.

The Martins were the parents of thirteen children, of whom six are now living. The four remaining daughters were present for the annual get-together, but the two remaining sons, George and Clyde, were unable to attend due to ill health.

Two deaths were noted in the family during the past year—John William Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Martin, of Effort, and Mrs. Nettie Martin Kellison, of Readers. Mrs. Kellison was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, of Readers.

"Uncle Billy" Martin, of Readers, who was 92 years old in April, received a begonia plant for being the oldest member of the family in attendance.

A social time was spent. Lunch and supper were served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wambold, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Markulis and children, James, Daniel, Donald and Patty; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heckman and sons, Arthur and Maurice; and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Traugher, Jr., and children, Carlotta, Cheryl, Clarence III, Carolyn, Colyne and Craig, of Bath; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Siegfried and children, Kim Allen, Brenda Kay and Georgia Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hufsmith and son, Gary, of East Stroudsburg; Wilmer Motz, Alice Motz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Motz and son, Harry Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bond and children, Debra and Curtis, Jr.; Mrs. Mabel Frailey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Frailey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doll, Mrs. Nettie Single, Mrs. Ella Stalker, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Singer and

Let's talk Fashion

When Summer turns the corner, so does our mood for clothes. All of a sudden we're tired of the ice cream pastels, the touselled you-tend-the-barbecue look and yearn for something smooth, sophisticated and sort of cherished. That's why we put the floating black chiffon dresses in the window since nothing could be smoother, more sophisticated or likely to get you taken out on the town.

But since this has been a real mix-and-match-your-weather sort of a week we've also got a budget-balancing clearance going on. It's not an odds-and-ends sort of clearance but the best-part-is-yet-to-come kind.

Handsome bermudas, skirts and matching shirts and sweaters and those bathing suits you coveted but couldn't afford earlier in the season as well as dresses to take you South this winter and triumphantly through next Summer. All-weather, all-season clothes to match your every mood, that's us.

Hutch Adds Four To NL All Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds added some power hitting and made one pitching change Thursday in the roster of the National League All-Stars that will meet the American Leaguers in Chicago Monday.

The National League was a 3-1 winner in the first All-Star game, played at Washington July 10.

The game rules allowed Hutchinson to add three players to the squad which played in the first 1962 game and he chose outfielders Frank Robinson of his own

Cincinnati team and Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs and third baseman Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves.

He also was allowed to make any changes he desired in the pitching staff and he picked Art Mahaffey of Philadelphia to replace Bob Shaw of Milwaukee.

Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles ace southpaw, had to be dropped, of course, because he has been sidelined with an ailing finger on his pitching hand.

Koufax isn't expected to be able to pitch until sometime next month.

With Koufax out of the picture, the National League will go into the second game with only one left-handed pitcher on the squad—the veteran Warren Spahn of Milwaukee.

Hutchinson also named Managers Birdie Tebbetts of Milwaukee and Harry Craft of Houston as his coaches for the second game. Managers Casey Stengel of New York and Johnny Keane of St. Louis were the first game coaches.

The starters, aside from the pitcher, were picked by a vote of the players and will be the same as in the first game. They are Del Crandall of Milwaukee, catcher; Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, first base; Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh, second base; Dick Groat of Pittsburgh, shortstop; Ken Boyer of St. Louis, third base; Tommy Davis of Los Angeles, left field; Willie Mays of San Francisco, center field; and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, right field. All must play at least three innings except in case of injury or illness.

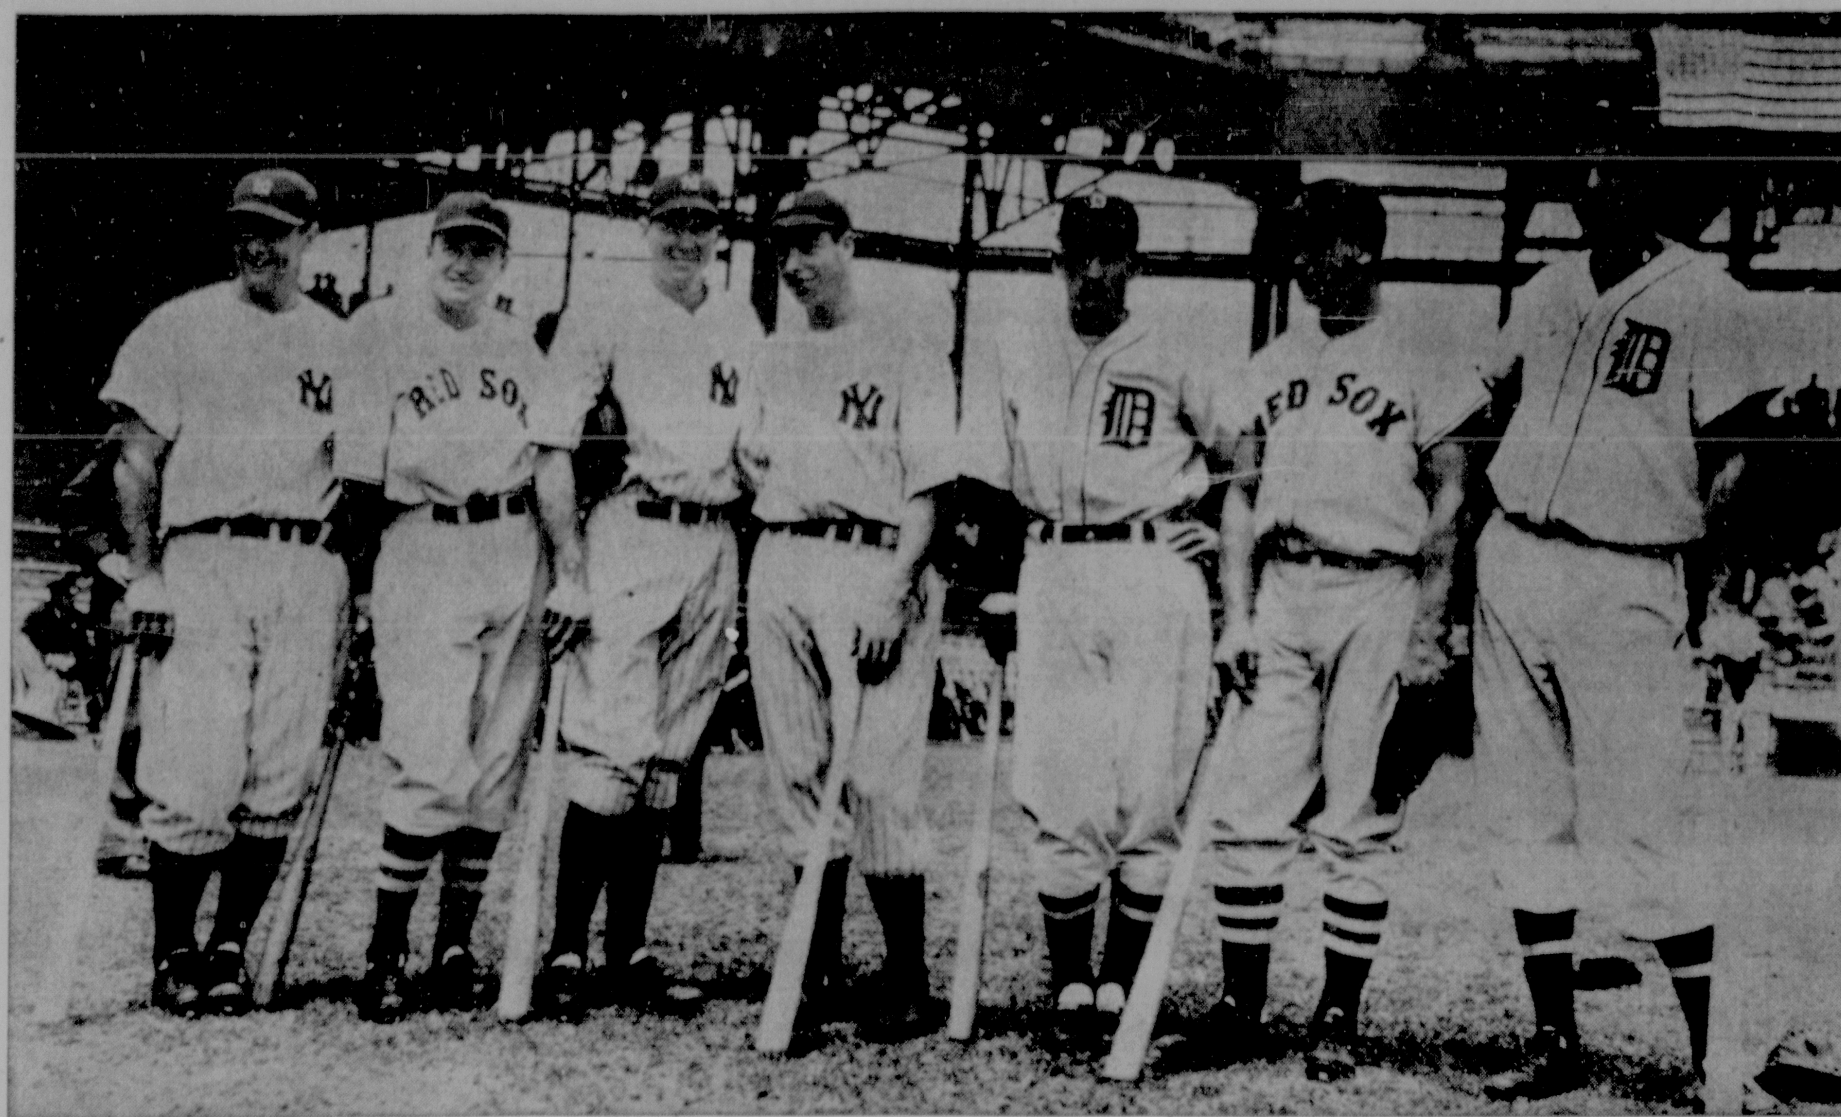

Everitt Loses In 23 Holes To Jim Curti

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Curti, Pittsburgh school teacher, reached the quarter-finals of the Pennsylvania state amateur golf tournament Thursday by defeating former champion Howard Everitt of Shawnee in 23 holes.

The tournament's defending champion and its medalist all bit the dust during the two 18-hole rounds at Merion Golf Club.

Everitt took a 2-up lead on the 16th hole of his match with Curti, but the former Western Open champion and one-time national small college titleholder, won the next two and sent the match into extra holes.

The duel remained even until the 23rd hole, where Everitt missed a seven-foot putt.

Women Tie For First In Golf Tourney

MISS Diane Schlegel and Mrs. Walter McClelland tied for guest honors of the Shawnee Day at Glen Brook Country Club Women's Golf Assn. tournament yesterday.

Emma Metzger won honors for the member tournament.

Mrs. Horace Butler won guest putting honors with 30 putts and Mrs. George Shafer for members with a 27.

Prizes for low net were won by Mrs. John Watt for Class A; Mrs. Grant Nitrauer for Class B; with Class C honors divided between Mrs. Horace Westbrook and Mrs. Angie Lockwick.

Mrs. Peter Wyckoff won both the nine-hole tournament and putting honors for that group.

Mrs. M. S. Baldwin welcomed guests at the luncheon which followed the tournament. Mrs. Wyckoff was in charge of putting prizes and Mrs. Nitrauer announced the tournament prizes.

Everitt took a 2-up lead on the 16th hole of his match with Curti, but the former Western Open champion and one-time national small college titleholder, won the next two and sent the match into extra holes.

The duel remained even until the 23rd hole, where Everitt missed a seven-foot putt.

Braves Tag Mets; Spahn Wins No. 10

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn posted his 10th victory of the season and moved up among baseball's all-time strikeout leaders Thursday as the Braves handed the hapless New York Mets their 11th straight defeat 6-1 in completing a sweep of a three-game series.

The 41-year-old Spahn struck out five, boosting his career total to 2,274 as he moved past Lefty Grove into seventh place on the all-time list. Grove, a member of the Hall of Fame, had 2,271.

Spahn also hit his first homer of the season, boosting his lifetime total to 31, a National League record for pitchers. He lost a bid for his 56th shutout in the eighth when Jim Hickman singled with two out and scored on Marv Throneberry's double to tie center.

Hank Aaron cracked his 27th homer for Milwaukee's first run in the second in launching the Braves to their sixth straight triumph, the club's longest winning streak of the season.

The men are guests at Locust Grove House.

Court Star Hospitalized

JIM THORPE, Pa. (AP)—John (Jackie) Morgan, 18, captain and star playmaker of the 1962 Class B PIAA basketball champions, Jim Thorpe High School, was injured seriously Thursday when a car he was driving hit the side of a small bridge.

Morgan, who led his team to the title last March 24, in a 51-40 victory over Clarion, suffered a fractured pelvis, dislocated hip, a knee injury which required immediate surgery, and multiple cuts and bruises.

State Police said the accident happened on Route 903 about 11 miles east of Jim Thorpe. Morgan was taken to Gaden Huetten Memorial Hospital at Lehighton, and later transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital, Allentown.

Blind Boy, 9, Is Thrilled By Aspromonte's Homer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bill Bradley, an Arkansas youngster who received a thrill of a lifetime Wednesday night, underwent surgery Thursday at the Texas Medical Center.

Doctors hope the operation will restore sight in the right eye. A similar operation on the left eye is to follow in about a week.

Bill, 9, has been blind since April 30 when he was struck by lightning while trying out as a second baseman for a pee wee baseball team in his home town of El Dorado.

"He came through the operation fine," a Methodist Hospital spokesman said minutes after Bill was transferred to a recovery room.

"The results of the operation will not be known for several days. The eye is bandaged and the outcome will not be known until the bandage is removed."

Bill attended the first six innings of Wednesday night's National League game between the Houston Colts, his heroes, and the visiting San Francisco Giants.

He had to return to the hospital, however, about one-half hour before Bob Aspromonte, Colt third baseman, hit a home run in the eighth.

Aspromonte had visited Bill's box seat near the Houston dugout prior to the game and promised to try for a home run for Bill.

Doctors authorized the trip to Colt Stadium after Bill agreed to return early and be in bed by 10 p.m.

But he did not have to wait until Thursday to learn about the home run Aspromonte dedicated to him.

A secretary in the office of George Kirksey, executive vice president of the Colts, telephoned the hospital immediately and let Bill know about the home run just minutes after it happened.

"He was thrilled, absolutely thrilled," the hospital spokesman said.

Aspromonte had visited Bill's box seat near the Houston dugout prior to the game and promised to try for a home run for Bill.

Moses Gray Gets Praise From Turner

MOSES GRAY, 260-pound tackle from Indiana University, drew the praises of Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, coach of the New York Titans in the American Football League Thursday.

"Our movies showed that he wasn't concentrating on football at times last year," Turner said, "but this year he is a dedicated player. I honestly believe he has doubled his speed."

Turner also singled out Dave Bosson, formerly of Duke, and Paul Miller, obtained from Dallas during the off season, for improvements during the training sessions. Bosson is a rookie offensive tackle and Miller is defensive end.

Richards reported that Elwood Petchel would bring a group of about 75 from the playgrounds of Pen Argyl.

Richards chuckled about one ticket-selling experience. "Several lads came in and bought tickets. They said they always managed to get in without paying but decided to use their spending money for Saturday's game because they felt it was for a good cause!"

Richards said, "and the Titans will be kicking from 2 yards in front of the permanent posts that are on the end zone, 10 yards beyond their normal position on the goal line for pro ball.

Richards noted that the ball will be moved 10 yards closer to the posts on all field goal attempts to compensate for the posts being 10 yards behind the goal line. This was the case in last Saturday's game at East Stroudsburg.

Guests at the Easton Children's Home will attend game under the sponsorship of the Class of 1951 at Easton High School. In addition they will receive spending money from the class hosts. Members of the midge teams of the Easton Fleas will be guests of that organization.

Await Report In Death Of Young Boxer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Authorities said Thursday they would await an autopsy report before deciding on an inquest in the death of a young boxer in his first professional fight.

Sonny Nunez, 22, suffered a fatal blow to the head in the final moments of a four-round featherweight bout watched by his wife, Carmen, and 1,800 other persons at Phoenix Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

The right-handed punch was landed by Rodrigo Contreras, 19, of Tucson, Ariz., also making his professional debut.

The death was the eighth in boxing this year. The last previous victim was Benny (Kid) Paret, who suffered brain injuries in a world welterweight championship bout with Emile Griffith in New York City.

Nunez, fought Contreras, 127 pounds, on even terms until a single punch dropped him and he was counted out.

The 123-pound fighter reached his feet after the count, but collapsed in the arms of his trainer, Billy Sparks. Nunez, in a deep coma, was taken to a nearby hospital but never regained consciousness.

A surgeon, who worked on Nunez 40 minutes, said the boxer suffered brain damage and was hemorrhaging heavily.

Two members of the Arizona Athletic Commission — T. R. (Lefty) Mofford and Fred Woodward—witnessed the bout.

"I saw the weigh-in and physical examination, Woodward said. "The fight was evenly matched and well officiated. It's just one of those tragic things."

Davey Moore Must Defend Or Lose Title

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The chairman of the World Championships Committee of the National Boxing Association told Davey Moore Thursday he must defend his featherweight title "against the best available challenger" or lose the crown.

The warning came in a letter from chairman Paul Sullivan to Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum of Hemet, Calif.

Sullivan said if Moore doesn't commit himself to a title defense against a high-ranking challenger, he will recommend to the committee on Aug. 20 at Tacoma, Wash., that the title be declared vacant and a tournament be arranged to find a new champion.

Sullivan noted that Moore's last defense was against Kazuo Takayama on Nov. 13, 1961, and said he has been overdue on another defense since last May 13.

The chairman also said Estimio (Sugar) Ramos of Cuba, the NBA-ranked No. 1 challenger, has advised the committee that he is available to meet Moore for the title.

Moore won the championship by defeating Hogan (Kid) Bassey on March 13, 1959.

Yanks Rout Sox; Boost Lead To 3

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees knocked out Gene Conley in an eight-run third inning Thursday and rolled to a 13-3 victory over Boston that boosted their American League lead over idle Los Angeles to three full games.

Clete Boyer's two-run homer climaxed the big inning against Conley, who had lost his last two previous starts 1-0 and 5-0. Conley forced in two runs by walks with the bases loaded and gave up two run doubles to Elston Howard and Dale Long.

Rookie Jim Bouton shut out the Red Sox for six innings only to be chased in the seventh when Boston scored three runs. Bob Turley finished with 2 2-3 hitless innings.

The Yanks ripped into relief pitcher Hal Kistad for two runs in the fifth on a ground rule double by Hector Lopez and successive singles by Howard, Long and Boyer. Rookie Tom Tresh hit his ninth home run off Kistad with nobody on in the sixth when the Yanks ran the score to 13-0 on singles by Roger Maris and Lopez, a walk, a wild pitch and an error by Billy Gardner.

U.S. School Girls Smash Swim Record

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Two California school girls smashed a world record but a Japanese diver was the sensation of the day in winning the men's platform title of the Japanese Outdoor Swimming and Diving Championships.

Donna de Varona, 15-year-old Olympian from Santa Clara, and Sharon Finerman, 16, of Los Angeles, eclipsed Miss de Varona's listed world record of 5 minutes 34.5 seconds, in a qualifying heat of the 400-meter individual medley.

Donna, the baby of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team, was clocked in 5:24.7 — the fastest ever by a woman. Miss Finerman, who has a mark of 5:29.5 pending for world recognition, was timed in 5:27.4. Donna said she will go faster in the final.

Shunsuke Kaneto of Tokyo supplied the big upset of the day when he edged Ron O'Brien, former Ohio State star, and won the men's platform diving championship. He scored 149.00 points to O'Brien's 149.04. Lou Vitucci another former Ohio State who won the 3-meter title Wednesday, was fifth off the tower with 133.54 points.

Barbara McAlister of Phoenix, Ariz., completed a double by adding the women's platform championship to the 3-meter title she won Wednesday. The 21-year-old American outdoor platform titleholder scored 91.71 points off the tower.

Preliminary heats also will be held Friday with the semifinals and finals set for Saturday and Sunday. More world and Japanese records are expected to be broken before the meet finishes in the 50-meter outdoor Oginachi pool.

Miss de Varona and Miss Finerman, along with Roby Whipple, 15, of Santa Clara, and Robyn Johnson, 16, of Arlington, Va., lowered the Japan mark for the 400-meter medley relay by 20 seconds with a qualifying time of 4:27.1.

Japan's men posted better times than American stars in other preliminaries had in the sweltering, 93-degree weather.

Kenjiro Matsumoto, a collegian from Tokyo, topped the qualifiers in the 200-meter breaststroke with 2:35.3, four-tenths of a second faster than the Japan record. Chet Jastremski of Indiana was timed in 2:35.6. Jastremski, 21, holds the world record of 2:29.6.

The Daily Investor Seems Very Unlikely

By William A. Doyle

Q. It seems to me that it would be a good thing if the condition of the "books" maintained by specialists on stock exchanges were made public at the close of each business day. Wouldn't this inform the public of the true condition of the supply and demand of a stock and eliminate what otherwise is blind speculation?

A. It seems very unlikely that it would accomplish what you think it would. I just don't go along with your reasoning on this.

A specialist, of course, is a member of a stock exchange who has the chore of maintaining a "fair and orderly market, insofar as reasonably practicable," in one or more stocks on the trading floor of a stock exchange.

A specialist also acts as a "broker's broker." This is where his "book" comes into play. In his book, he writes down all fixed-price orders to buy or sell shares of the stock in which he specializes. Those buy and sell orders have been left with the specialist by other members of the stock exchange who don't have time to stay around the specialist's trading post until the particular stock reaches the prices at which the orders were placed.

The condition of the book is supposed to be kept quite secret. Other than the specialist, the only people who get to inspect it are officials of the stock exchange and the Securities & Exchange Commission.

If the orders in every specialist's book were made public at the close of each trading day, the true condition of supply and demand would not be revealed. The brokers who have placed orders with specialists would undoubtedly cancel their orders and simply place them again at the opening of business the next day.

Actually opening the specialist's book for inspection to anyone who wanted to look at it would open the gates to possible manipulation by sharp operators.

An all-important point is that the public would have no way of seeing the contents of the books of all specialists. It's a tough enough job for newspapers to print daily stock transactions. Printing the contents of the books on all stocks would be just about impossible.

So, even if this information were revealed at the end of each business day, the only people who would get to see it would be professionals on Wall Street. The investing public would be in the dark and at a terrible disadvantage.

Houdaille's Net Profit $920,481

HOUDAILLE Industries, Inc., which has installations in Stroudsburg, and a plant in Portland, had a net profit of $920,481 on net sales of $45,580,112 in the first six months of 1962, according to Gerald C. Saltarelli, president. The figures compare with net profit of $719,060 and net sales of $35,498,902 for the same period in 1961.

Based on 1,471,911 common shares outstanding and after preferred dividend provision, the earnings are equivalent to 48 cents a share for the first half of 1962 and 34 cents per share for the same period a year ago.

Houdaille produces construction materials, automotive parts and industrial tools and machinery. It has its headquarters in Buffalo, N. Y.

TANGIER, Morocco (AP)—The destroyer Dahlgren of the U.S. 6th Fleet has put in here for a four-day courtesy visit.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for a two-year term beginning Oct. 1.

Kennedy also nominated Gen. Earle G. Wheeler for a two-year term as Army chief of staff.

Maxwell will succeed Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, who is to become commander in chief of U.S. forces in Europe.

Wheeler, now deputy commander of U.S. forces in Europe, will succeed Gen. George Decker as Army chief of staff. Decker is retiring.

Q. Bending the prices of mutual fund shares in a different newspaper the other day I saw a symbol next to Johnston Fund indicating that the fund is "in receivership, bankruptcy or being reorganized under Bankruptcy Act." Your paper didn't report this. Why?

A. Because it's not true. That symbol you saw next to Johnston Fund's price was a misprint — a "typo," as we say in the newspaper business.

The symbol should have indicated "net asset value," meaning that Johnston is one of the no-load mutual funds whose shares are sold without any commission charge.
